

HARRY POTTER PLACES

March 11, 2013

London's Harry
Potter Studio Tour
Newz

www.HarryPotterPlaces.com

Captured on March 11, 2013

From Monday 18th March to Sunday 14th April, we will be celebrating our first anniversary at the Studio Tour. Join us in our celebrations with a series of surprises, great giveaways and extra experiences around the attraction.

The Studio Tour, one year on:

- The first person to visit the Studio Tour was a four-year-old boy named Harry and the millionth visitor was a nine-year-old boy from the appropriately-named town of Dudley.
- The longest distance traveled to the Studio Tour by a visitor to date is over 11,000 miles. This particular person came all the way from New Zealand.
- The longest time a visitor has spent in one day at the attraction so far is 10 hours.
- Over 20 members of the Studio Tour staff worked on the Harry Potter film series as costume makers, extras, chaperones and/or members of the tech and catering teams.
- The Great Hall doors have opened more than 14,000 times since the Studio Tour began, and each group of visitors has been greeted with the words “Welcome to Hogwarts!”
- The number of wands sold by Warner Bros. Studio Tour London since opening would, if stacked end to end, be taller than 7,000 triple-decker Knight Buses.

The first anniversary celebrations will take place between Monday 18th March to Sunday 14th April, limited tickets available, book your tickets today.