Emrah Nostalji

Deathly Hallows
Weinstube Spitzhäuschen

hello, after reading your books I became enthusiastic and I would like to share a Harry Potter location with you

On January 5th, 2018, we received a message on Facebook [at left] from Emrah Nostalji of Rotterdam.

<https://www.facebook.com/nostalji.emrah>

When we asked, he provided more information.

“In the credits for the movie [Deathly Hallows Part 1] they mention Rothenburg ob der Tauber as a film site. But, according to city’s tourist information center, [the only footage shot there was from helicopter].

“My niece from the USA (big Harry Potter fan), who is currently visiting me, also asked me about the locations in Rothenburg. Then I did a little research and found that [this scene was filmed in Bernkastel-Kues, Germany].”

We followed up with additional research and confirmed that Emrah was correct—that is the Weinstube Spitzhäuschen building seen in Voldemort’s very rapid approach to the home of Mykew Gregorovitch (the famous wand maker), while searching for the Elder Wand.

Emrah also sent us a Google Map link showing the Weinstube Spitzhäuschen building location.

The Weinstube Spitzhäuschen building appears approximately half-way through Deathly Hallows Part 1—following Harry, Hermione, & Ron’s arrival in the Forest of Dean (after Ron was splinched during their escape from the Ministry of Magic). Following the scenes of them taking turns trying to destroy the locket Horcrux, Harry is sitting outside the tent. First he looks at his mirror shard, then he pulls out the locket and suddenly gets sucked into Voldemort’s mind. Harry witnesses the dark wizard reaching Gregorovitch’s wand shop, and all that he did there.

Unfortunately the building is seen on screen so briefly, it is very difficult to snag a good screenshot of it! What follows are the best we could get.

When you compare the poor-quality screenshots to a photo of the Weinstube Spitzhäuschen building, however, its architecture is unmistakable—as well as the cobbled street next to it, the Karlstraße.

Please Note: Gregorovitch’s wand shop was digitally added to the few seconds of footage containing the Weinstube Spitzhäuschen building. It does not exist in Bernkastel-Kues—or anywhere else for that matter.

If you will be journeying to Germany – particularly the Bernkastel-Wittlich district in Rhineland-Palatinate – consider Pottering in Bernkastel-Kues!

“The colorful medieval Market Square (Markt) [in Bernkastel] is one of the most beautiful in the Moselle Valley. It is surrounded by many well preserved half-timbered houses, as well as the Renaissance Town Hall (Rathaus) built in 1608.

“The half-timbered Spitzhäuschen (‘pointed house’) on Karlsstrasse is probably the most famous building in town. Built in 1416, its ground floor is much narrower than the upper floors, which gives it a wobbly look. ...

“Bernkastel has many fountains, such as the St. Michaelsbrunnen (St. Michael’s fountain) on the Market Square [where you’ll find the Weinstube Spitzhäuschen building].”
